Antsy Onslaught

SCIENTISTS LAST YEAR came up with a global ant census, and it's unfathomable: 20 quadrillion. That's 20 followed by 15 zeroes. Think of it this way: Ants outnumber humans at least 2.5 million to 1.

And, no, most of them don't live in Texas, though more than 250 of the 14,000-plus species worldwide are native to our state.

The dreaded fire ant isn't one. They're invasive in Texas.

Bragging Rights

Women's History Month

MORE THAN A CENTURY AGO, Katherine Anne Porter survived a pandemic. At 28, she was hospitalized for months with influenza, and her hair turned white. Porter's harrowing experience informed the title story in her trilogy, Pale Horse, Pale Rider.

Known for her precise, lyrical prose, Porter won a Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award in 1966 for her Collected Stories.

The author's childhood home in Kyle, now the Katherine Anne Porter Literary Center, hosts readings by visiting writers and was designated a national literary landmark in 2002 with a benediction from Laura Bush. "This house now stands as a living memorial to one of our most beloved, and best, storytellers," Bush said.

I, too, have an opossum for a pet—one of God’s gentle creatures that unfortunately was given a very short life span. Ours is named Jones, and he travels with us when we visit state parks and other places in Texas. We rescued Jones from a county road where his momma met her fate. POWER OF OUR PEOPLE

Gently Used, Generously Shared

A small thrift shop in Comfort gives local students a boost for schooling

ASK MERCEDES ELLIS about her favorite place to shop, and her answer may surprise you.

You might expect the Texas State University student to rattle off well-known fashion brands or influencer-approved Instagram boutiques. Instead, she'll name a teeny, tiny secondhand shop in the small town of Comfort: the aptly named Pass It On.

It's not just that Ellis, 20, enjoys sifting through racks of other people's castoffs—though she does enjoy that. (In fact, she once found a pair of Gucci shoes for under $10.) It's that more than anything, Ellis loves Pass It On because the store provides for its Hill Country community.

The shop offers a little bit of everything—clothing, furniture, books, appliances and seemingly everything between—at rock bottom prices. There's not much they won't sell. The inventory is unpredictable and priced to move. Recently there was an old leather dentist's chair for sale on the shop floor.

But here's what really makes Pass It On unique and why Ellis says she'll always be a customer: Nearly every cent of the store's proceeds funds college scholarships for students in the Comfort school district. Ellis herself received one of them.

"This shop has made so much possible for me," she says. "Being a college student, every dollar really helps. This scholarship makes a big difference for me and my family. It's a cycle of generosity, and I feel so grateful to be a small part of it."

April Langston is also part of that cycle of generosity.

Langston, a member of Bandera Electric Cooperative, never expected to run the 25-year-old nonprofit thrift shop. She spent her career working in public education, advocating for students with special needs in the Northside and Boerne school districts. But in 2014, not long after retiring, Langston's husband died in a plane crash. They were married 37 years. Her world fell apart.

"That's when all of my plans changed," Langston says. "I was retired and widowed. Suddenly I had all this time. I had to learn a different life. And it led me to Pass It On."

In processing her grief, Langston felt drawn to volunteer work and community outreach. At Pass It On, she does both.

Langston leads a small army of volunteers who do pretty much everything—process donations, organize displays, help customers—whatever it takes to keep the doors open and the lights on.

The store is only open for eight hours each week—Fridays and Saturdays from noon to 4 p.m. Despite the limited hours, Pass It On has raised big money for Comfort students seeking education beyond high school. Langston says the store provided $65,000 in scholarships last year, up from $50,000 the year before. In all, 191 students have received $760,000 in aid.

"I guess it's really not that different from what I've done all my career," Langston says. "I've always worked in education, and I've always helped kids. The opportunity to go to college can change a child's life. I don't want anyone to miss out on that chance because they couldn't afford it."

"And that's why we're all here at Pass It On."

Langston doesn't like to turn anyone down. For the past two years, Pass It On provided scholarships to every student who applied—all powered by people's donations and, according to Langston, "a whole lot of Windex."

But the store isn't just a source of scholarship money. It's a legitimate shopping destination in Comfort, a town of about 3,000. Langston says there's always a line of shoppers waiting outside the door when she opens.

"When I tell you we've got something for everyone, we've really got something for everyone here," she says, laughing. "If you come to Pass It On and leave empty-handed, you aren't looking hard enough."

And that's one thing Langston makes clear. She isn't in the business of selling junk. Of course, they get offerings that don't make it to the shop floor, and those get donated elsewhere. But she's seen Prada purses, Coach bags, delicate glassware and fine china all come through her door. Sometimes, even she's a customer. Sure enough, Langston checks the tag on her shirt. She got it from—where else?—Pass It On.

Despite the tens of thousands of dollars in scholarship money provided over the years, Langston will tell you she's the one who's grateful. After the tragedy of her husband's death, she found meaning and purpose at the storefront on Front Street. And for her, that's priceless.

"I consider this my responsibility now," Langston says. "I feel God's hand over this work. And as long as I can keep up, I'll be here doing it." ■

TCP Visit Pass It On via video on our website.

YOU CAN HELP Pass It On accepts gently used items to support its scholarships. Make donations at 716 Front St., Comfort 78013.

Until the COWS Swim Home

STORY AND PHOTOS BY ERICH SCHLEGEL

Huebner Bros. Cattle Co. cowhands drive their cattle off Matagorda Peninsula and across the Colorado River for summer grazing near Bay City.

T'S A SCENE STRAIGHT out of a campy old Western.

After a long day of driving cattle—from 5 a.m. until dark—that ends with pushing the herd to a cattle trap by an old Army air base, full-time cowboy Stephen Weathers rendezvous with fellow cowboys finally relieved of their saddles.

“Then we’d sit around the campfire, cooking cans of pork and beans and have a great time joking around,” he says. “When we’d finally get to sleep in the bunkhouse, anyone snoring would get a cowboy boot thrown at him.”

The Matagorda cattle drive runs right through a river—as it has for 106 years

Except this isn't a dusty trail to Abilene, Kansas, but a Gulf beach in Matagorda County. And instead of a marathon drive, it's more of a bovine biathlon.

The biannual Matagorda Bay cattle drive is one of the most historic and unique drives in the U.S. For more than 100 years, the Huebner Bros. Cattle Co. has been moving its herd back and forth between winter grazing pastures on the 30-mile-long Matagorda Peninsula and the summer pastures on the family's ranch south of Bay City. The operation involves swimming the cattle across the 15-foot-deep Colorado River close to where it empties into the Gulf of Mexico.

Keith Meyer, Huebner Bros. ranch manager, is the fifth generation of cattlemen in his family to organize and run these drives. "Our family has been moving and swimming cattle on and off Matagorda Peninsula consecutively since 1917," says Meyer, who's been involved since he was 6 or 7. "I've grown up working this cattle drive alongside my father and grandfather."

he drives move the cattle to the peninsula for the winter months, then move them inland in the spring, just before hurricane season begins and storms threaten their safety. The cowboys time the crossings to occur during periods of slack current, when tidal motion is minimal.

Every November, just before Thanksgiving, about 550 head of cattle are moved in two-story 18-wheeler cattle trucks from the Huebner ranch to a holding pen near the beach. This area is part of the Lower Colorado River Authority's 1,333-acre Matagorda Bay Nature Park. After passing the coastal fishing town of Matagorda, the cattle are hauled down FM 2031, past homes on stilts along the Colorado River to the west and past 934 acres of protected Matagorda Bay wetlands to the east.

Once the cattle have been delivered to the holding pen and the road is blocked, Meyer and his team of 10–12 drovers lead the herd toward the water. Some of them are local youngsters on horseback who are learning from the more seasoned veterans.

“Our family has been moving and swimming cattle on and off Matagorda Peninsula consecutively since 1917. I’ve grown up working this cattle drive alongside my father and grandfather.”

At Matagorda Bay Nature Park, the cattle drive takes a right-hand turn at the miniature golf course to the river’s edge, and the 100-yard swim to the peninsula begins. A small flotilla of cowboys on motorboats ensures the cattle don’t stray, and in about 15 minutes, all are across.

By the return trip in spring, the herd of 550 grows to about 800 bulls, cows and calves.

“I used to love the cattle drive,” says Weathers, a member of Jackson Electric Cooperative, which serves this corner of Matagorda County. He worked the drive for about 15 years. “We’d get on the peninsula early the first morning and start riding west down the beach. We’d split up our team. Some riders picking up cattle along the beach, some in the dunes covered in salt grass.”

Even though this Beefmaster breed of cattle is known for hardiness in harsh, humid coastal climates, the mosquitoes and biting flies on Matagorda Peninsula can be too much for the herd to handle as the weather warms. The seasonal change challenges the cowboys too.

"It's straight out of the Old West but with a 21st-century spin."

"The warmer temperatures have brought the rattlesnakes out of hibernation," Weathers says. "You'll find rattlesnakes sunning themselves on top of the salt grass, perched about leg high as we ride. The snakes and the biting flies are enough to force some cattle to swim across the river on their own."

Thus begins the trek back to the Huebner ranch.

"Our ranch pastures have had time to rest over the winter, and the cattle and calves are ready to get going inland," Meyer says.

Jeralyn Novak, communications coordinator for Beefmaster Breeders United, calls the Matagorda Bay cattle drive a modern-day Lonesome Dove. It's "straight out of the Old West but with a 21st-century spin," she writes.

Jeff Crosby, executive director of the Colorado River Land Trust, a nonprofit that works to protect land and water in the Colorado River watershed, witnessed a spring cattle swim firsthand. "This is an important part of our historical Texas heritage," he says.

The cowboys don't set or share dates for the spring or fall drives, so lucky onlookers have only the weather and tides to go by. After more than a century of trial and error, these efficient workers have the drive down to a science.

"Cattle drives are still done the same way," Crosby says, "because moving cattle from one location to another was perfected long ago." ■

TOP The Matagorda drive includes moving the Beefmaster cattle along sidewalks. ABOVE Jacie Wahlberg, 7, helps with the roundup.

Throw Yourself a Bone

Full tang stainless steel blade with natural bone handle —now ONLY $79!

The very best hunting knives possess a perfect balance of form and function. They're carefully constructed from fine materials, but also have that little something extra to connect the owner with nature.

If you're on the hunt for a knife that combines impeccable craftsmanship with a sense of wonder, the $79 Huntsman Blade is the trophy you're looking for.

The blade is full tang, meaning it doesn't stop at the handle but extends to the length of the grip for the ultimate in strength. The blade is made from 420 surgical steel, famed for its sharpness and its resistance to corrosion.

The handle is made from genuine natural bone, and features decorative wood spacers and a hand-carved motif of two overlapping feathers—a reminder for you to respect and connect with the natural world.

This fusion of substance and style can garner a high price tag out in the marketplace. In fact, we found full tang, stainless steel blades with bone handles in excess of $2,000. Well, that won't cut it around here. We have mastered the hunt for the best deal, and in turn pass the spoils on to our customers.

You're More Than a Customer

AUTHOR ANTHONY J. D'ANGELO once observed that “without a sense of caring, there can be no sense of community.”

To a large degree, this reflects CECA's philosophy toward our consumer-members and the broader community that we serve. As a cooperative, we have a different bottom line. While our priority is always to provide reliable and safe energy, there's another equally important part of this equation: the well-being of our members.

To us, you're not just a customer—you're a member of our co-op, and without you, we couldn't exist.

In 1938, CECA was founded to fulfill a vital need in our community that otherwise would not have been met. Concerned local leaders came together to build this co-op and bring electricity where there was none.

At that time, members of the community understood we were different because they likely knew someone who helped form CECA. For many people, the circumstances of our founding have been long forgotten, and over time, folks in the community may have come to think of us as simply another energy provider.

But we aren't. We're a cooperative constantly evolving to meet the needs of the communities we serve, and we're able to do this because of members like you.

Since our inception, we've sought feedback from you and the broader community to guide our long-term decisions. This is why we hold annual meetings and other events.

That feedback helps guide important co-op decisions that improve and enrich the community. We value the perspective of our elected board members, who are members of the co-op and community—just like you.

We strive to find new ways to help you use energy more efficiently. We're always looking to explore options that will help you manage your energy use. And we always seek to keep pace with the changing energy environment, evolving technology and shifting consumer expectations.

As a local business, CECA has a stake in the community. That's why we support local charitable organizations and offer scholarships to local students. When you support these efforts, you're supporting the community and making it a better place for everyone.

While times have changed since our co-op was founded, our mission and outlook have not. We view our role as a catalyst for good. Working together, we can accomplish great things for our community—now and in the future. ■

CECA Offers Free Solar Power Analysis to Members

DID YOU KNOW THAT CECA offers a free solar power analysis for members interested in solar projects? This means that our team can help you understand every part of the solar installation process from beginning to end. No matter where you are in your planning, CECA can work with you to ensure the best decision for your wallet and your property.

For example, if you're interested in putting a solar array on your property but aren't sure how to go about doing it, our representatives can answer your questions and provide technical and procedural information regarding a potential installation. Before any solar array is installed and before interconnection can take place, there are agreements and safety concerns that must be addressed.

Moreover, CECA will provide firm estimates for the cost of an installed solar photovoltaic distributed generation system along with estimates of the system's energy output and the projected savings generated by the system. In general, the cost to install solar arrays has decreased significantly over the past several years as the industry has realized economies of scale in the purchase of the core system components—PV panels and inverters.

That said, the return on investment for these systems depends on the size, typical output and location of the system, and the savings achieved by not purchasing energy from CECA. The co-op has developed a helpful tool that utilizes meter data and information specific to the member's account to calculate your particular return on any solar investment. CECA also recommends the National Renewable Energy Laboratory's PVWatts Calculator to members who are interested in learning more about the cost effectiveness of solar installations for their property.

Here are some key points to remember before you embark on a solar energy project.

1. CECA requires an application process to be completed prior to interconnection with our system to ensure proper safety, liability and metering standards are met. Please contact us before you start your project to be sure your plans are compliant and that your project goes smoothly.
2. Discuss your solar project plans with CECA staff for general information or specific needs. Solar can be a great energy efficiency tool, and we applaud our members who are working to conserve energy. Contact us at 1-800-915-2533 to learn more about how we can help. ■

Stay Safe During Windy Months

THE OLD ADAGE, “In like a lion, out like a lamb,” refers to March starting out stormy and ending calmly—and that includes wind patterns.

“Across most of the country, spring is the windiest time of the year,” according to a South Carolina weather forecaster’s blog. “Wind speeds and wind power tend to be [three to four] times stronger in March and April than in July and August. In the [Dust Bowl] days, most of the dust storms were in late winter and spring. That continues to be the case in the Plains today.”

High winds can blow objects around and present a threat to your safety. Understanding what to do before, during and after high winds can help you weather windstorms more safely. Consider these tips from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Before Strong Winds

Trim tree branches away from your house. Call CECA about tree branches that are too close to power lines.

Secure loose gutters and shutters.

Find an interior room of your house, such as a closet or bathroom, that you can take shelter in.

If you live in a mobile home, seek out a sturdy building where you can go when it’s windy.

Charge batteries of all essential items such as cellphones, booster packs and weather radios.

Secure any items that could blow away, to avoid damage or injury once the wind starts picking up.

During Strong Winds

Immediately go inside a sturdy structure and move to an interior room or basement.

Take shelter in your car if you are not near a sturdy building. If possible, drive to a nearby sturdy structure.

If no shelter is available, avoid trees and power lines.

If you’re driving and aren’t near a sturdy building, hold the steering wheel with both hands and slow down.

Keep a safe distance away from high-profile vehicles such as trucks, buses and vehicles towing trailers. One strong gust of wind can be enough to flip a trailer onto its side.

After High Winds

Do not go near downed power lines. Report downed power lines to the police and CECA.

Continue to listen to the local news and NOAA Weather Radio for updates following the storm. ■

Breaking Down Energy-Saving Claims

WHEN IT COMES TO saving energy, it can be confusing to figure out what works and what doesn't. There are many wild claims out there, like adding devices to your meter, that are pure rubbish. But some claims have been repeated so many times that they start to ring true—even though they aren't. Let's set the record straight on a few of those.

Q: Is it true that turning lights off and on uses more energy than just leaving them on?

A: Not true. Turning off lights definitely reduces energy use. Turn off LED and incandescent bulbs every time you leave the room. The situation is a little different with compact fluorescent bulbs. Turning them off does save energy but can shorten the life of the bulb. The rule of thumb for CFLs is to turn them off any time they won't be used for 15 minutes or more.

Q: Would replacing my old windows with new, more efficient ones really cut my energy use in half?

A: No. While replacing inefficient windows with new, energy-efficient windows can cut heat loss through windows in half (or more), windows typically account for only about 25%–30% of your home's heating costs. The amount of energy you use for heating and cooling is likely one-third to one-half of your total energy use, so replacing your old windows might only reduce your total energy costs by about 10%.

Q: My kids claim using the dishwasher is just as efficient as washing dishes by hand. Are they right?

A: Yes—in fact, it's usually more efficient. Properly used dishwashers actually use less water while doing a better job, and they will save you more than 200 hours a year. For maximum savings, make sure your water heater is set to about 120 degrees and use the most efficient settings.

Q: Should I close the vents in rooms that aren't being used?

A: Most experts advise against this because closing supply registers forces your heater or air conditioner to work harder. If your system supplies too much cold or heat to some rooms and too little to others, talk to a professional about modifying your ductwork.

Q: Does the age of my home determine how energy efficient it is?

A: Newer homes tend to be more efficient because energy codes have improved, but any home can have hidden energy issues, no matter its age. If you want to evaluate the efficiency of your home, it's best to schedule an energy audit with a pro. ■

Tune Up Your Air Conditioner

REALLY HOT WEATHER is still a couple of months away, but it's never too early to think about whether your central air conditioning system can make it through one more summer. Spring is the perfect time to call a qualified service technician to give your system a once-over.

Giving your AC system an annual tuneup can:

Reduce unexpected repairs. Even if your service tech recommends a repair during the process, it's still a repair you can make on your terms, rather than when it becomes necessary in the middle of summer.

Lower utility bills. A clean AC system is going to run more efficiently than a dirty one.

Extend the life of your system. AC systems that are regularly maintained can last 15 years or more. Systems that aren't maintained won't last longer than 10.

Provide greater comfort during the summer. Just one tuneup a year is enough to ensure your AC system can provide reliable cooling throughout the entire home.

Keep parts warranties valid. Most AC manufacturers void your warranty if system maintenance isn't performed annually by a professional. ■

Spring Brings a Chance To Save

THE SPRING EQUINOX occurs March 20, harkening warmer weather and longer days—and the temptation to use more electricity. Instead, let the start of the season be an opportunity to save energy and money. Here are some tips from the U.S. Department of Energy to start your spring off right.

Install and set a programmable thermostat. You can save an estimated 10% per year on heating and cooling costs by using a thermostat that adjusts the temperature automatically for when you're home, away or asleep.

Use sunlight to your advantage. Choose window treatments that allow you to use natural light while reducing heat transfer.

Open windows to cool your home with a natural cross breeze rather than turning on your air conditioner.

Turn on your bathroom fans to expel unwanted heat and moisture and improve comfort.

Switch to Energy Star-certified appliances and other electronics, which can save you hundreds of dollars over the lifetime of the products.

Choose energy-saving lighting. Replacing five of your home's most frequently used incandescent lightbulbs with LED bulbs could save you $75 in energy costs.

Use an electric power strip to help reduce phantom loads and save up to $100 a year. Turn off the power strip when electronics are not in use.

Reduce energy for water heating by lowering your water heater temperature to 120 degrees, installing low-flow showerheads and using cold water to wash clothes.

Hire a professional to maintain your heating and cooling system. Check and replace your air filters regularly and arrange for annual maintenance with a qualified technician.

Check with an energy auditor or a member services professional at CECA to achieve larger savings. They can do an audit of your whole house using special tools to measure your home's energy efficiency and offer suggestions to make beneficial changes. ■

Corned Beef Hash

3–4 strips bacon
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 cups cooked corned beef, finely chopped
2 cups cooked potatoes, grated and unpeeled
Salt or garlic salt
Pepper

1. Fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon from the pan.
2. Add onion to pan. Sauté until clear.
3. Combine beef and potatoes in hot drippings in pan. Crumble bacon and add it to the mixture.
4. Stir thoroughly while heating.

Add an Energy Review to Yearly Spring Checklist

WARM WEATHER HAS A way of making things grow: flowers, grass and your to-do list. So what's one more task? While you're scrubbing and inspecting your home this spring, check for opportunities to increase energy efficiency around the house. Making a few energy-related repairs could help lower your electric bill all year long.

While you're cleaning the windows, check for loose or missing caulk and weatherstripping. These energy no-no's allow cool air to escape from your home during the summer and steal heated air during the winter. That can raise your energy bill no matter the season. A tube of caulk and a little elbow grease can tighten things up.

Lightbulbs looking dim? Wipe them down to remove excess dust, and trash those incandescent bulbs. LED bulbs come in almost every size and mimic the glow of incandescents while using less energy. They last up to 10 times longer than compact fluorescent lightbulbs and 5,000 times longer than incandescent bulbs.

Replace your dirty air filters, which make your air conditioning system work harder.

Open the windows. If it's not warm enough yet to turn off the heat and enjoy the fresh air, install a programmable thermostat, which automatically adjusts the temperature so you use less energy to heat your home when no one is there. The device can save you up to $100 a year on heating and cooling bills.

Vacuum under and behind the refrigerator to remove dust buildup that decreases efficiency. If you use an extra fridge or freezer in the garage, turn it off when not in use. If you use it year-round, keep it stocked or fill gaps with extra jugs of water or trays of ice so it will operate more efficiently.

Before you scrub major appliances like refrigerators, ovens and washing machines, check to see if the model is Energy Star certified. If not, consider upgrading—Energy Star models use loads less energy and are worth the purchase price, even if your older, less-efficient appliance is still getting the job done. ■

You Know Newbury

Even if the Texan's name doesn't ring a bell, his soaring folk, rock and country songs should

BY PETER BLACKSTOCK

NOT MANY PEOPLE knew Mickey Newbury's name when he made his first and only appearance on Billboard's Hot 100 pop chart in 1972—but they probably knew the songs he stitched together on An American Trilogy, one of the most unlikely hit singles ever.

Written 100 years before Newbury combined them, the folk songs Dixie and Battle Hymn of the Republic presented contrasting views of the American South. The former became an unofficial anthem of the Confederacy; the latter was written during the Civil War by a well-known abolitionist. Newbury added All My Trials, a traditional folk song popularized during the mid-20th century folk revival by artists such as Joan Baez.

His dramatic arrangement and recording of the three songs hit No. 26 on the Hot 100 in 1972. It also caught the attention of Elvis Presley, who made An American Trilogy a staple of his live repertoire. All of this might have made Newbury a one-hit-wonder footnote, but in fact his music offered a much deeper well for those willing to dive in.

Newbury had been on the charts before but as a writer—and with a similarly unlikely single. Fellow native Houstonian Kenny Rogers' first hit came from Newbury's pen. Rogers' 1960s band the First Edition had a top-five smash with Just Dropped In (To See What Condition My Condition Was In), a psychedelic rock song steeped in the counterculture of the era.

Rogers wasn't actually the first artist to record Just Dropped In. That was Jerry Lee Lewis, who subsequently took Newbury's She Even Woke Me Up To Say Goodbye to No. 2 on the country charts in 1969. By that time, Newbury's career as a writer had taken off, with artists ranging from Don Gibson to Solomon Burke to Eddy Arnold scoring hits with his tunes.

Suddenly, major record labels had reason to bet on Newbury's solo career. He responded with a magnificent string of solo albums from the late 1960s through the mid-1970s that rival the works of such masters as Bob Dylan, Leonard Cohen and Joni Mitchell.

His albums weren't big sellers, but fellow Texas songwriters took note. My first exposure to Newbury came many years later, when as a music writer I informed Townes Van Zandt in a 1992 phone interview that Newbury had been booked to open a show for Van Zandt and Guy Clark in Seattle. Van Zandt was thrilled at the news, then explained that Newbury had been a mentor to both when they were getting their starts in Houston's folk clubs.

Newbury's influence on other writers ran deep enough that he gets name-checked in one of the most famous country songs of all time. Songwriters Chips Moman and Bobby Emmons wrote Luckenbach, Texas (Back to the Basics of Love), which topped the country charts in 1977 when Waylon Jennings and Willie Nelson recorded it. In the chorus, they sang about "Hank Williams' pain songs and Newbury's train songs."

Newbury had a few train songs—Frisco Depot and The Future's Not What It Used To Be from 1971's Frisco Mabel Joy come to mind. But he had plenty of pain songs, too. The title track to 1973's Heaven Help the Child is almost epic in its grandeur of heartbreak, with Newbury's booming tenor soaring above a majestic orchestral arrangement.

Along with trains and pain, rain figured prominently in Newbury's music. It was more than just a lyrical metaphor: Newbury sometimes used rain sounds as bridges between tracks on his albums.

Newbury, who'd moved from Houston to Nashville when his career caught fire, eventually settled in the Pacific Northwest. He didn't record much in the 1980s and 1990s, but a late-career resurgence resulted in one of his finest albums, 2002's A Long Road Home, just a few months before his death. Lung-related ailments had left him mostly unable to sing in his final years; I caught his final public performance in November 1999 at a bar on the Florida-Alabama border, bravely delivered while he was hooked up to an oxygen tank.

That performance helped motivate me to assemble Frisco Mabel Joy Revisited: For Mickey Newbury, a 2000 tribute album featuring Kris Kristofferson, Dave Alvin, Bill Frisell, Chuck Prophet and others.

In his liner notes for Frisco Mabel Joy Revisited, the late, great Texas art critic Dave Hickey wrote about the Newbury album that inspired the tribute. He described Newbury's compositions as "tiny, perfect songs, perfectly played, perfectly sung and perfectly recorded in perfect time, with perfect intonation." ■ hill that overlooked the vast and sunny Rio Grande delta to the south. The 10,000-square-foot mansion was believed to be the largest adobe house in Texas at that time, 1935. It was built in a Spanish Revival style with imported Talavera tile, red clay tiles for the roof, wrought-iron gates and huge carved doors. The couple wanted their home to look like the elegantly appointed homes they had seen in the finer districts of Mexico.

Quinta Mazatlan is an urban sanctuary for pollinators and native plants.

TCP Listen as W.F. Strong narrates this story on our website.

After the Matthews died, the house was sold to a grapefruit millionaire, Frank Schultz, who added features like stone balustrades. Eventually the home was sold again and began to suffer from neglect.

The city of McAllen stepped in and saved it in 1998, and today Quinta Mazatlan and its 20 acres are a crown jewel of the city, described as a “mansion with a mission.” The world-class educational facility located in a Tamaulipan thorn forest is part of the World Birding Center and hosts the annual Monarch Fest to support the struggling monarch butterfly population.

Quinta Mazatlan’s grounds are teeming with native plants and serve as a rejuvenating garden for migrating exotic birds and pollinators. The property’s magical ambiance has made it a sought-after venue for couples wanting to say “I do” in a place they’ll always treasure remembering.

The Matthews were honored to know that the dream they had for their beloved home has been magnificently surpassed. ■

Of Birds, Butterflies and Brides

Quinta Mazatlan and its massive adobe mansion remain a McAllen jewel

BY W.F. STRONG

THE ROMAN PHILOSOPHER Cicero said, “If you have a library and a garden, you have all that you need.” Enter the gates of Quinta Mazatlan, and you’ll understand that wisdom.

This inviting refuge is seemingly a world away from the hustle and bustle of McAllen right outside the gates. Jason Chilton Matthews, who built the mansion in the 1930s, wanted it that way.

In every corner, there are Old World influences. There’s a tiled Roman bathtub, 9 feet long and 3 feet deep, and a tiled mural that has the words “Labor Omnia Vincit,” Latin for “work conquers all,” which is Virgil’s praise for the life of the farmer in his poem Georgics.

Matthews was a renaissance man—a publisher, writer, composer, poet, scientist, soldier and pilot. He fought in 11 battles in World War I.

After Matthews traveled the world extensively, involved in various business enterprises with Marcia, his oil heiress wife from Pennsylvania, they settled in McAllen because he said it was the “crossroads of the Western Hemisphere.” He wanted to build a home that would be a showplace to entertain friends, and he found the highest point in McAllen: a

Cast Iron

Trusted cookware provides timeless value, indoors and out

BY MEGAN MYERS, FOOD EDITOR

There's no tool more cherished in a home kitchen than a well-seasoned cast-iron pan. Whether your skillet has been passed down for generations or is just starting to see its full potential, it's a go-to for many dishes. This tart lemon pie, from Fredericksburg Cast Iron Co., uses your pan in a somewhat unexpected way.

Lemon Skillet Pie

PIE

½ cup (1 stick) butter, melted,
plus more for the pan
1½ cups crushed graham crackers
½ cup sugar
3 cups sweetened condensed milk
3 egg yolks
¾ cup lemon juice
Pinch salt

TOPPING

1 cup heavy cream
3 tablespoons powdered sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

GARNISH

Sliced lemons
Lemon zest
Fresh mint leaves

1. PIE Preheat oven to 350 degrees and lightly coat a 12-inch cast-iron skillet with butter.
2. In a bowl, combine graham crackers and sugar. Stir in melted butter until well blended. Press the crumb mixture into the bottom and sides of the prepared pan. Bake until firm, about 8 minutes.
3. Meanwhile, combine the sweetened condensed milk, egg yolks, lemon juice and salt and beat with a mixer for 4 minutes.
4. Pour mixture into baked pie crust and return the pan to the oven. Bake until the center is set, about 10 minutes.
5. Let the pie cool at room temperature for 30 minutes. Cover and then transfer to the refrigerator to chill until set, at least 1 hour.
6. TOPPING When ready to serve, make the topping. In a large bowl or using a stand mixer, beat the cream, powdered sugar and vanilla until fluffy. Spread onto pie and garnish as desired.

Dutch Apple Pancakes

GWEN JONES
BRYAN TEXAS UTILITIES

Oven-baked pancakes are impressive with their highly puffed sides. This Dutch apple version is wonderfully spiced and makes for a great breakfast or dessert.

4 eggs

½ cup flour

½ cup plus 1 tablespoon sugar, divided use

½ teaspoon baking powder

Pinch salt

1 cup milk

2 tablespoons (¼ stick) butter, melted

1 teaspoon vanilla extract

1 teaspoon ground nutmeg, divided use

4 tablespoons (½ stick) butter

½ teaspoon ground cinnamon

1 large tart apple, peeled, cored and thinly sliced

1. In a large bowl, whisk together eggs, flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, baking powder and salt. Gradually whisk in milk until smooth, then whisk in melted butter, vanilla and ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Let batter rest at least 30 minutes and up to overnight.

2. When ready to bake, preheat oven to 425 degrees.

3. Heat a 10-inch cast-iron skillet over medium and add 4 tablespoons butter. Once melted, brush butter up sides of pan and remove from heat.

4. In a small bowl, combine ¼ cup sugar, cinnamon and remaining ½ teaspoon nutmeg, then sprinkle evenly over the melted butter. Arrange the apple slices over the sugar mixture, then sprinkle the remaining ¼ cup sugar over the apples.

5. Place the pan over medium-high heat and cook just until the liquid starts to bubble. Remove from heat and evenly pour the batter over the apples.

6. Bake 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 and bake 10 minutes more. Serve immediately.

SERVES 4

GAMBLING DEBT REVEALS STUNNING TURQUOISE JEWELRY

Own the diamond of the desert!

Old Pete was a retired stuntman bursting with stories. There was the time he stared down a grizzly bear. There was the time he won a competition and got to kiss a Hollywood starlet as the prize. And there was the time he got into a fistfight with the Duke. Many stories. Some were probably even true. I know two things for sure: that he had an excellent collection of turquoise and that he owed me for a poker game he lost. The last time I saw him, he opened a drawer and pulled out a collection of beautiful Navajo turquoise jewelry to repay his debt. Pete's jewelry inspired our Tucson Sun Turquoise Collection.

This jewelry set features turquoise that's been gently enhanced to bring out its finest shades in a Southwestern motif. Finished with oxidized silver, this jewelry set captures the beauty and mystery of the Arizona desert. The rarest and most valuable turquoise is found right here in the American Southwest, but the future of the blue beauty is unclear. I recently spoke with turquoise traders who explained that less than 5% of turquoise mined worldwide can be set into jewelry. Once thriving, many Southwest mines have closed.

But Stauer saw this coming and is now one of the largest owners of gem-grade turquoise in the U.S. Don't miss your chance to own the diamond of the desert. Act now. This is one of our fastest sellers, and we only have a limited supply of Arizona turquoise available for this ad. See why Stauer remains the best bang for your buck!

Jewelry Specifications:

- Arizona turquoise. Oxidized silver finish. Ring: whole sizes 5-10. Pendant: 1 ¾" drop. Cuff: fits wrist to 7 ¼".

'Lonesome' in a Library

Texas State University houses memorabilia from the TV miniseries

BY CHET GARNER

WHEN I THINK OF the Wild West and the grit it took to be a cowboy, I don't think of yodeling Roy Rogers or Hollywood-perfect John Wayne. I think of Woodrow Call and Gus McCrae, covered in sweat and driving cattle in Lonesome Dove. I remember watching the 1989 miniseries with my parents and thinking, "Now these are real cowboys."

Every year thousands of faithful fans like me make a pilgrimage to San Marcos to visit a permanent exhibit dedicated to the classic production.

I rolled onto the campus of Texas State University and wandered past students to the seventh floor of the Alkek Library, which houses the Wittliff Collections. Screenwriter Bill Wittliff and his wife, Sally, collected writers' papers for years and decided to open them to the public. There are priceless papers from writers like Cormac McCarthy and Sam Shepard, but most come to see the work of Wittliff himself. He was the screenwriter who adapted Larry McMurtry's Lonesome Dove novel into the award-winning miniseries.

Inside the exhibit, you'll find the cowboy outfits worn by Robert Duvall (McCrae) and Tommy Lee Jones (Call). There are arrows shot by Comanches as well as hats, guns and the wooden sign for the Hat Creek Cattle Co. that hung outside the fictional headquarters. They even have the deceased body of Gus that Call dragged back to Texas as a final act of friendship. Most amazing to me was the script used by Wittliff on set, with his tweaks and changes to lines to tell the best story possible.

I left inspired to tell more stories about the West—but only after I had properly binge-watched all six-plus hours of Lonesome Dove one more time. ■

A Pet Project

An ailing feline finds her place at the head of the table

BY JESSICA RIDGE
ILLUSTRATION BY
STEPHANIE SINGLETON

I SET THE DELICATE china saucer before her, a tiny calico queen curled up on a quilt. On the dish is a dainty portion of cat food, heated to make it more enticing. The plate was a wedding gift a decade ago, shortly before my husband and I brought our little feline gourmand home.

Only the best for miss priss. She gives this morning's delicacy, whitefish and tuna, an imperious sniff, then looks up at me. Is that the best you can do, lady? Next up, canned salmon.

Isobel is 12 now, and she is dying.

Her green eyes gaze with the same peaceful focus, and she still flops over for belly rubs and purrs contentedly, but her decline, which had been happening in fits and starts, has gained momentum. And my husband, Jon, and I find ourselves vested with the worst, most painful power—deciding when to let her go. It's a desperate sort of daily divination. How much has she eaten today? Three bites earlier? Fantastic. As she grows thinner.

And yet as best we can tell, she isn't suffering. So with our vet's blessing, we persist. I imagine Isobel as a discerning diner at a Michelin-starred restaurant for which I'm the hapless chef, subject to the mercy of her palate's whims. No thank you to tuna in oil today; yes please to catnip-laced crunchy treats.

Her haughtiness has hung on in other ways, too. She still emits an irritated squeak when our dog, Brienne, gets too close for her liking. She's never been a big fan of our coltish pup. Too friendly, too in her face.

But Isobel warmed up to us quickly. The day we brought her home, a volunteer at the animal shelter had asked if we'd like to meet the sweetest kitty in the whole place. Sure, we said. Almost as soon as Isobel emerged from her little metal crate, she settled into my arms. More like a puppy than a 2-year-old cat, really. The sad din of the shelter faded into the background as she stared up at me. Sold.

That night, she hid under the sofa in our apartment until I got home from work, when she finally ventured out from beneath her chenille hideout, to our soft-spoken jubilation.

We go back to the vet tomorrow, where I know the news won't be good. I've begun the steps to volunteer at the shelter where we found Isobel; I hope to guide another family to a cat as sweet as ours.

Until then, I've got plenty to keep me busy—a finicky, affectionate Isobel, as likely to snuggle up close as she is to turn up her nose. ■
